Uses of the Japanese Screen.

To the Editor of the Chicago Tribune: GARDNER HOUSE, CHICAGO, May 21 .- Not even bedsteads, tables, or chairs are more comfortable, convenient, and useful than Japanese screens. The Japanese dispense with the three former, but are never without the latter. Shops for their sale are as numerous in the large cities of Japan as ager-beer saloons are in Chicago and Milwaukee. Too poor to purchase, a Japanese contrives one for himself.

They are seen everywhere in Japan, in many forms and sizes, from the tiny markuro bio (pillow screen) to the mammoth hatchi bio (eight-leaf screen). They are always light, pliable, portable, generally durable, and capable of being shut up into very small space when not in use.

They are used to ward off drafts of hot and cold air, rays of light and fire, to screen beds, tables, desks, doors, windows, and other openings; in garden, lawn, pic-nic, pantomime, theatricals, and street pageantry; for balconies, verandas, conservatories, ferneries, hospitals, camps, &c.; as temporary partitions in halls and rooms, and to insure privacy in apartments where people are passing to and fro. Considered from an art standpoint, they are the picture-galleries of the Japanese. In this respect they are superior, for their screens are useful, while our pictures are only ornamental. They are vehicles for rich designing in lacquer, bronze, porcelain, embroidery, natural feathers, ferns, seaweed, marquetrie and mosaics in woods and shells, and cloisonne enamelling as well as paintings, classical writings, proverbs, and lect pictures-many of these collections being of great value and historic interest. Mechanically considered, they are ingeniously constructed. Take a four-leaf screen, Talcott, W. G. Taylor, L. B. Their uses and value are fast becoming known to us, and it is to answer the numerous inquiries that are constantly being made as to their utility that this letter is written; for I have thoroughly learned it myself during many years in Japan, and am glad to be able to point it out gratuitously to my fellow-countrymen. I know of nothing which we may adopt from the Japans with more profit. Very respectfully, &c., WILLIAM H. DOYLE.

Mr. Martin V. Calvin, special correspondent of the Augusta (Ga.) Chronicle, and assistant superintendent of education in that State, has been here on a recent visit of business and pleasure. These are his imressions of Richmond: "On Saturday afternoon last I saw Richmond as I had never before seen it-from Church Hill-whence one may behold all the beauties "That hills and valleys, dales and fields, Woods or steepy mountains yield.

"It is a grand view-broader and more inpiring in some respects than some of the randest had from mountain tops. The her manufacturing establishments and beautiful residences, and opening up or perfecting attractive drives and public parks; the river bearing upon its vessels from foreign ports bosom and losing itself among the hills; the canal, always busy, returning (increased hundred fold) the bread cast upon the waters by the projectors of that great enterprise; the fields of waving grain ready for he sickle keen; the happy hills and pleasing shade; the lowing herd winding slowly er the lea-these and more than these make a picture no artist on earth can reproduce. Yonder, on Main street, stands the stone house in which Monroe spent his chool days, and just at hand is St. John's church, in which Patrick Henry made his celebrated speech. In Hollywood-most beautiful of cemeteries-stands the Confederate monument. What a happy design! It stands ninety-five feet in height-a pyramid of granite, more imposing and more suggestive to my mind than sculptured marole from foreign climes."

gentlemanly conduct has always done credit both to themselves and to the college.

The pouring rain of yesterday made many long faces and sad hearts among the belles in the city would be hailed as a benefactor, and beaux, as it seemed to dissipate all hope of the intended promenade, if not of the expected attendance at the anniversary. About dark, however, it ceased raining, and there assembled an audience representing the dignity, intelligence, beauty, and refinement of the city. The ball was very beautifully festooned and decorated, and one needed not to be told that the zeal of the young men had been aided by the good taste of their lady friends. After some very fine music by Kessnich's band, during which pleasant chit-chat ran around the room, the graceful committeemen, who had been politely engaged in scating the audience, escorted to the platform the orators and officers of the societies, and the exercises were opened with prayer by Rev. Dr. J. C. Long. Mr. Paul Y. Tupper, of Richmond, president of the Mu Sigma Rho Society, delivered a most appropriate, witty, and ELOQUENT SALUTATORY. He would meet the audience at the thresh hold and throw wide open the door of welcome to bid the dignified citizen, the comely dame, the beautiful belle, and even the good-natured fellow who sits on the outskirts of the audience and always applauds at the wrong time, come in. He explained that, instead of baving as in other years a separate celebration for each Society, the Mu Sigma Rho and Philologian John Ott, John M. Otey, Colonel W. H. A REMARKABLE ADDRESS.

A gentleman who has been hearing such speeches at various colleges for many years said in the hearing of this reporter that he had rarely, if ever, heard an address the equal in every respect of that of Mr. Riggan. He goes next September to the Southno prophetic pen to predict for him, if he shall be spared, a high position in the ministry and a bright career of usefulness.

He said that a manufacturer who should invest that much money and could procure almost any privileges he wanted. Richmond College asks not a dollar from "the City Fathers," except that they should improve the streets running to her grounds, and should show her at least equal consideration with the lager-beer gardens, the streets leading to which they have been prompt to improve. He thought the alumni of Richmond should quietly but firmly insist upon this justice to the College at the hands of the city. Dr. Thomas suggested that there should be a closer relationship established between the academies of the State, and as soon as possible a series of Richmond College scholarships should be offered as prizes in these schools.

The Society unanimously and heartily dopted the following resolution: "Resolved. That the alumni of Richmond College tender their sincere thanks and congratulations to Rev. P. S. Henson, D. CLERK'S OFFICE OF SUFREME COURT OF APPEALS OF VIBGINIA, RICHMOND, June 4, A. D. 1878. DURSUANT TO THE PROVISIONS

PURSUANT TO THE PROVISIONS of an act of the General Assembly of Virginia approved April 30, 1874, entitled an "Act prescribling the manner in which records for the Supreme Court of Appeals shall be printed, and providing for letting the same to contract," and which is as follows—to wit:

I. Be it enacted by the General Assembly. That the clerks of the Supreme Court of Appeals at Richmond, Staunton. Winchester, and Wytheville shall, in the month of June, in the year eighteen hundred and seventy-fous, and annually thereafter in the same month, solicit proposals by advertising in some newspaper published in their respective localities for the printing for one year of such records of courts as may be required under exi ting laws to be printed for the use of the Supreme Court of Appeals in determining cases of appeal.

II. The said proposals shall state the amount per page of afteen hundred ems small pica type, and shall include the paper, printing, binding, and a neat cover, with the style of the case and the court from which the record comes neatly printed thereon.

III. The said clerks shall award the contracts for said printing to the lowest responsible bidders in their respective localities, and shall take from them bond, with ample security in a penalty double the amount of the work to be executed, the same to be ascertained by the amount of the preceding year's work. The mode of certifying and paying accounts for said printing shall be as now prescribed by law.

IV. All acts and parts of acts in conflict with the provisions of this set are hereby repealed.

V. This set shall be in force from its passage—
